No. 543.—The following Press Communication is published:—

Press Communication.

The Government have under consideration the question whether the Cotton Transport Act, 1923, which provides for the restriction and control of the transport of cotton in certain circumstances, should be applied to this Presidency.

2. The Cotton Transport Act, which is printed as Appendix I to this communication, is merely an enabling measure. It empowers local Governments, for the purpose of maintaining the quality or reputation of the superior varieties of cotton grown in any area in the Province, to prohibit, by notification in the local official gazette, the import of cotton including cotton waste and cotton seed or of any specified kind of cotton into that area except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a licence. As a necessary corollary, it also empowers them to prohibit the delivery to, and the taking delivery by, any person at any specified railway station situated in the protected area, of any cotton, the import of which into that area is prohibited, when such cotton has been consigned from a railway station not situated in that area, unless such person holds a licence for the import of the cotton into that area. No notification can, however, issue unless it has been laid in draft before the Legislative Council and has been approved by a resolution of the Council either with or without modification or addition.

3. The Indian Cotton Committee, which was appointed in 1917, brought to notice that the practice of adulterating long staple cotton with short staple was very prevalent at the gins and press houses in certain long staple areas, the object being to secure for the mixture the high prices offered for the long staple; that, owing to the consequent mixture of seed, there was considerable deterioration in the cultivation of many of the superior varieties of cotton grown in India and that short staple cotton was frequently mailed to a long staple area and re-bagged there even without mixing as long staple cotton. The Committee condemned these malpractices in the strongest possible terms on the ground that they were exercising a serious and dangerous influence on the cotton industry as a whole and recommended that legislation should be undertaken immediately with a view to prevent the transport of short staple cotton and cotton waste for admixture with long staple cotton. The Cotton Transport Act which was passed by the Indian Legislature in February 1923 was the outcome of these recommendations. It provides a remedy for the malpractices brought to notice by the Indian Cotton Committee by enabling the local Government to prevent inferior cotton or cotton waste from being imported, except under licence, into areas which it is desired to protect.

4. This Presidency which, in Coimbatore, North-eastern and Western and in Tinnevely, produces three of the best varieties of cotton in India supplies several instances of the evils referred to by the Indian Cotton Committee. 'Coimbatore' cotton is often transported to Nandyal where it is mixed on buyers' as Nandyal cotton, with the result that the principal buyers of the latter have now begun to look with mistrust and suspicion on the cotton offered in the Nandyal market, much to the detriment of the cotton growers in the Coimbatore district, and what is an even greater evil, that the Nandyal cotton itself is deteriorating to the level of the 'Coimbatore' cotton owing to the mixture of seed. Again, cotton dealers in Tiruppur import all kinds of inferior cotton into Tiruppur in order to mix it with Tiruppur cotton and to sell the mixture as 'Tiruppur Coimbatore' which, owing to the action of the Agriculture Department, has established a name for itself on the Bombay market as a first class variety. Not only so, but inferior cotton is often mailed to Tiruppur and merely re-bagged from there to Bombay in order to be sold as 'Tiruppur Coimbatore'.

'Tinnevely' cotton which is a mixture of 'Uppan' and 'Karasagani' is often sold to Tiruppur from the Tinnevely district and there sold as 'Karasagani'. These misapprehensions no doubt enable the dealer who indulges in them to obtain an immediate profit but their inevitable result must be deterioration in the quality of the cotton crop and a heavy fall in price which will seriously affect the interests of the cotton grower.

A considerable sum of money is being spent in this Presidency each year on cotton improvement work. A Cotton Specialist is engaged in producing new and improved strains of the existing cottons and in endeavouring to produce entirely new strains suited to special districts and markets. Some of the strains already produced have proved decidedly superior to local strains both in yield and quality. In order to get such strains into the hands of the ryots it is necessary to produce large quantities of seed of them and to keep this seed pure. Under present conditions, the maintenance of the purity of seed of any new strain is exceedingly difficult and it involves a good deal of expenditure on establishment and supervision of seed farms and seed unions. Were deliberate mixing of cottons with the concomitant mixing of seed prevented, it would be much easier and less costly to maintain pure seed strains and to spread their cultivation over wider areas to the benefit of the ryots.

5. The Madras Provincial Cotton Committee and the Director of Agriculture have recommended that, in order to stop the adulteration of cottons, the Cotton Transport Act should be applied to the Madras Presidency and have submitted a draft notification under section 3 defining the limits of the Northern and Western area, the Tiruppur Camboda area and the Tinnevely area which in their opinion should be 'protected', i.e., into which the import of cotton from outside can only be permitted under license. They have also submitted a set of draft rules under section 7 of the Act. The draft notification and the draft rules are printed as Appendix II to this communication. It is proposed that the protected area in the case of 'Northern and Western' cotton should consist of 'the districts of Anantapur, Bellary, Cuddapah and Kurnool, in the case of the Tiruppur Camboda cotton, of the district of Coimbatore and the Kaveri taluk of the Tanjore district and in the case of Tinnevely cotton, of the district of Tinnevely, that portion of the Ramnad district lying to the south of the South Indian Railway from Madurai to Mandapam and that portion of the Madurai district lying to the south of the Vaigai river. It is also proposed that there should be no restriction on the transport of cotton lint from the districts of Salem, North Arcot, South Arcot, Chittoor and Chingleput into Tiruppur. Before putting final orders on these recommendations, the Government are anxious to ascertain the views of the public in general and of the cotton growers in particular in regard to the proposals. Any representations which reach them before the 1st October will receive their careful consideration. They should be addressed to the Secretary to Government, Development Department, Fort St. George, Madras.

6. It is not to be expected that there should be no opposition to the application of the Act to this Presidency; in fact such opposition has already manifested itself in certain quarters on grounds which on examination appear to be based either on an inadequate appreciation of the benefits which the cotton growers stand to derive from the proposed measures or on a misapprehension of the conditions under which trading in cotton is carried on. The Government, therefore, consider it desirable that the arguments which have been urged against the proposed measures should be briefly examined in this communication. In the first place, it has been contended that the application of the Act would place an undesirable restraint on trade. The Government are prepared to agree that this must be the case, but they do not believe that the restrictions on freer trade would in practice prove serious. There can, in their view, be no objection to restraint on distant trade and this is the object with which the Act would be applied. In the second place, it is contended that the application of the Act may possibly injure cotton growers by reducing the price of cotton outside the protected areas as it could only be imported into those areas after obtaining a license. This objection entirely overlooks the primary object of the application of the Act which is to protect the producers inside the protected areas from unfair competition from outside. The application of the Act would ensure that the excellent cotton they grow is not mixed with the inferior cotton imported from beyond the limits of the protected area, that the buyer of it would know exactly what he is buying and would therefore pay an adequate price for it and not a price based on shrewd suspicion, if not on actual knowledge, that he was buying adulterated cotton. The Government do not believe that the producer of cotton outside the protected area would lose. He would continue to get the intrinsic value of his cotton as he does at present even if it were no longer used for purposes of mixing. It is the dealer who buys from him who would be obliged to share part of the profits he now makes by adulteration and the Government do not consider that his interests deserve consideration. A third objection which has been taken is that the application of the Act may injure local manufacturers by putting them to the trouble of obtaining licences for importing cotton which they may require for mixture for weaving purposes and by increasing the price of local cotton. The Government do not apprehend that any serious inconvenience would be caused to the few mills situated in the protected area as they would have little, if any, difficulty in obtaining the cotton they require under the system of licences which would be introduced on the application of the Act. An increase in the price of local cotton is to be welcomed in the interests of cotton-growers. It is further urged that the licensing system may give room for opportunities for oppression, if not for corruption. The working of the system would be very carefully watched and if this proved to be the case steps would be taken to rectify the defects when rendered possible. Another objection which has been taken is that the Act does not sufficiently serve the purpose for which it is intended, namely, the prevention of adulteration. Future prevention of the adulteration of cotton is an uphill and difficult task, but in the opinion of Government, the application of the Act would mark a great advance in this direction. There would appear to be a belief in certain quarters that the object aimed at is the prevention of adulteration of cotton intended for export and that it would fail in its effect as the exporting firms could still buy cotton both from protected areas and from those not protected and mix it at the port before exportation. This belief is based on a fundamental misapprehension in regard to the conditions under which the export trade in cotton is carried on. It is unnecessary to explain these in detail and it is sufficient to state that they are such as to render mixing by exporting firms an impossibility. The application of the Act would undoubtedly work in the interests of the exporting firms as it would ensure that they actually get the cotton they set out to buy but it would also mean that they would pay the proper price for it and would therefore react in favour of the producers. It must be remembered that the greater part of the superior varieties of cotton grown in India are now actually consumed in India itself and it will be clear from what has been said above that the application of the Act will operate as much in the interests of the Indian consumer as in that of foreign consumers.

7. In regard to the representations which have already been received from the trade interests at Tiruppur against the application of the Act on the ground that it would reduce the quantity of cotton reaching the Tiruppur market and that this would reduce the number of buyers and the keen competition which now prevails for cotton in that market and would also mean the closing down of some of the gins and penises there with a consequent loss of employment to the labouring population. The Government admit that there is considerable force in this contention, but they do not consider that the interests of one trading centre can be permitted to override those of the vast body of producers and consumers of cotton, the protection of which, more especially those of the farmer, must be the paramount consideration in deciding on the policy to be followed.

ANATOMY.

Final directions for using Vaccine Lymph.

1. Supplies of vaccine lymph to be sent to the several districts will be made from the King Institute, Sydney, five times a month on the dates noted against each group of districts:—

(1) Kalgoolie Maitland South Kansas Cuthbertson Selma	} 1st, 7th, 27th and 29th.	(4) Karoolie Ararat Belconn Ondipah Selma	} 4th, 10th, 20th and 24th.
(2) Geelong Oatland Gawler Geelong Leeds Yarragippon		(5) North Coast Oatland Chirgippon Barnard Kurtin district
(3) Yarragippon Yarragippon South Coast Yarragippon Kurtin	} 2nd, 8th, 17th and 20th.	(6) Hemsley Jala 21st	} 5th, 10th, 21st and 27th.
	} 3rd, 6th, 19th and 23rd.		} 6th, 12th, 23rd and 26th.

Under the arrangement it will be possible for vaccination to suit for their second supply and thus two up two supplies together. This might not be desired as District Health Inspectors are not always in town with their vaccine. As there will be a tendency to delay in using the vaccine as promptly as possible, vaccination should be ordered to submit some evidence of vaccination immediately after finishing this supply. In all cases of delay there should be a return weekly as it is very important that all vaccine of lymph should be used promptly. District Health Officers will be expected to take all steps to ensure that this is being done by the vaccination in their districts.

2. All vaccine for vaccine lymph shall be in multiples of 20 doses and ordinarily the issue of lymph from the King Institute will be in units containing 20 doses each. In special cases (after consulting 10 doses will also be issued but this smaller issue should not be readily accepted if vaccination can be done more.

3. The vaccine is sent from the King Institute of Preventive Medicine, Sydney, in glass tubes. These tubes are labeled to show—

- (a) the lymph number;
- (b) the number of doses which can be vaccinated with the contents;
- (c) the date of despatching; and
- (d) the period beyond which the vaccine must not be used.

This period is fixed as a maximum for reasonable places but to ensure good results every effort shall be made to use the vaccine expeditiously.

4. General instructions.—(1) A vaccination should provide himself with the following articles (see Fig. 1):—

- (a) One vaccine bottle.
- (b) Two rubber bands in a wooden box.
- (c) Alcohol and in sufficient quantity.
- (d) One wooden bottle of vaccine and instrument.
- (e) One bottle of vaccine.
- (f) The necessary quantity of methylated spirit.
- (g) One rubber band.
- (h) One glass.
- (i) One glass of water.
- (j) A small bag with absorbent paper to hold the above.
- (k) A brush, used as a rubbing plank to arrange the articles on.
- (l) Clean water in a glass (bowl) wide-mouthed round.

No. 188.—The last two items should be obtained locally.

(2) All apparatus should be kept in a good state of repair and should be transported periodically by the District Inspectors, who should in part say it delivery to the District Health Officer with a view to getting the necessary repairs. The bottles should be kept polished and in good shape.

(3) Vaccination should be performed in a clean and shady place such as the village streets, or in the shade of a bush tree.

(4) The children to be vaccinated should be collected before commencing the vaccination whenever possible.

(5) Heat quickly destroys the potency of vaccine lymph; it should therefore be kept as cool as possible, night and day.

Vaccination shall be at the appointed place on the due date in order to take delivery of the supplies of lymph from the Postal authorities immediately on arrival. The vaccine bottles shall be sent by post in a sealed vaccine-carrier.

11. Where it is evident that a well-seasoned or experienced person is to the end, to great loss, or in carrying out the operation has occurred, or where vaccination has been delayed or omitted, or where the cost of vaccine at the rate of a pice per dose. Such expenses should be certified to the Treasury and be paid to the Government under XXIII-A P.H. Public Health receipts. This and other items and the Treasury receipts should be forwarded to the Director, King Institute, Calcutta.

Fort St. George, July 3, 1924 (G.O. No. 261, P.H.)

No. 722.—In G.O. No. 597-A, P.H., dated 24th June 1923, the Government called upon all local authorities of areas liable to plague infection to submit special reports containing a clear statement of the policy which they intended to pursue for combating the disease. These reports were published in G.O. No. 1811, P.H., dated 3rd November 1923, for the information and guidance of all Collectors and local bodies. The Government have now carefully examined the various suggestions contained in these reports for amending the existing plague regulations and they proceed to pass the following orders:—

(1) Control of movement of grain and persons.—The power of ordering an disinfection of grain to be extended to the personal effects of persons.—It is generally admitted that the powers which Collectors possess at present have very rarely been exercised owing to the practical difficulties in enforcing an disinfection of grain. The Government do not see any object in arming Collectors with additional powers when even the existing powers are not exercised.

(2) Certificates to be required to produce certificates indicating the place from which the grain was imported.—There is nothing to prevent the Collectors from insisting on these certificates even under the present regulations; the utility of this procedure is however doubtful.

(3) Rat destruction and construction of rat-proof godowns.—To be transferred to the exclusive control of the Collector.—Rat destruction can be done on a large scale only with the co-operation of the people. If the people recognize the importance of ridding godowns before the plague season as a body will remain indifferent. What is wanted is vigorous propaganda work. The Government do not consider that the mere transfer of control to Collectors will improve matters.

(4) Insulation to be made compulsory in plague infected places and Collectors to be empowered to order compulsory insulation in places liable to infection.—The Government have consulted the Collectors of districts which are worst affected by plague. The majority of them are against the proposal mainly on the grounds that

- (a) it would be very unpopular and meet with strong opposition, and that
- (b) it would be expensive to enforce effectively.

The Government consider that in the existing state of public opinion compulsion would be premature. It will evoke a storm of protest without corresponding benefit. Insulation does not, moreover, cut at the root or cause of the outbreak and the personal immunity which it confers does not last beyond a few months. If insulation is made compulsory, every man, woman and child in plague infected areas will require to be insulated at least once every year, and this will entail an enormous expenditure of money. In the circumstances, the Government are not prepared to adopt the suggestion.

(5) District Health Officers and Municipal Health Officers to be required to carry out work as the Collector or the District Medical Officer considers necessary.—District Health Officers are already Plague Officers under the Plague Regulations. The Government propose to include Municipal Health Officers also under Rule 1 (c) of the Plague Regulations. They agree with the Director of Public Health that it is unnecessary that these officers should work under the District Medical Officers.

(6) Plague administration to be provincialized, i.e. assumed from provincial funds in the first instance and to form part of the executive duties of the Collector and his establishment, the cost of such administration being subsequently apportioned between the Government and the local bodies.—The Government have decided in G.O. No. 1704, P.H., dated 15th October 1923, that for the present Collectors should continue to be responsible for plague measures and that they should utilize as far as possible the services of the District Health staff for work connected with plague epidemics. The financial arrangements are regulated by Standing Order No. 24. The Government do not consider that any change in the system is called for at present.

2. The Government have therefore come to the conclusion that no substantial change is required in the existing plague regulations. The regulations, as slightly amended with reference to paragraph 1 (3) above, will be extended for a further period of one year from 15th July 1924.

SUGARCANE CROP OF 1921—FIRST REPORT.

[On an average of the five years ending 1920-21, the area under sugarcane in the Madras Presidency has represented some 4.1 per cent of the total area under agriculture in British India.]

The area planted with sugarcane up to the end of July 1921 is estimated at 59,100 acres against 104,363 acres in the corresponding date of last year, a decrease of 43 per cent. The decrease is general except in South Arcot where there is an increase owing to the fairly good supply of wells. The decrease is due to the insufficient supply of water in the irrigation canals owing to the poor North-east monsoon of the previous year.

3 The crop in the Coimbatore and Salem has not made good progress owing to the prolonged drought at planting time. The crop is generally healthy except in parts of North Arcot where it was affected by an attack of stem-borer. In South Arcot, the crop has not been much affected by floods and a normal yield is expected.

4 Details by districts are given in the statement appended.

[Area in hundreds of acres, i.e., 00 being omitted.]

CULTIVATION STATEMENT—APRIL AND MAY 1904.

(On an average of the five years ending 1903-04, the area sown in April and May represents only two per cent of the cultivation on dry lands and four per cent on wet lands.)

Second—There was little sowing in the first half of May except in Ganjam, Yangapalem, Melichur, and the Nilgiris. Good crops were reaped in the second half of the month in Salem, Coimbatore, Trichangudy, and Melichur. There was also a fair amount of sowing in Baroda, Assamgaon, Cuddapah, and the Deccan. There were fairly well distributed and palatable the draught in some extent. The profit was in deficit in other districts.

Irrigation water was generally sufficient only in the delta districts.

The main crops sown in the month were first crop paddy in Melichur, dry grains and guarhy in Salem and Coimbatore, and paddy, sugarcane and guarhy in Ganjam and Yangapalem. Other crops were sugarcane in Yangapalem and Chittoor, guarhy in Ganjam, Yangapalem, and Coimbatore, and guarhy in Chittoor, Salem, and Coimbatore.

2. Dry lands.—The area sown in April and May 1904 was 18 per cent above the average and 10 per cent above last year. The contrast was mainly in Coimbatore, Melichur, and the Nilgiris owing to the drought last weather year.

3. Wet lands.—The area sown in April and May 1904 was 3 per cent above the average and 10 per cent above last year. There was a large decrease in area in the Coimbatore districts and Madras owing to the heavy supply in tanks but this was more than counterbalanced by the increase in Tellichur.

Rice is not grown for May 1934—As compared with April 1934, the average retail prices of foodgrains, especially wheat had a tendency to rise slightly in May 1934, owing to the reduced yields obtained in 1933-1934. The price of rice rose by 5 p per cent in South Arcot and Tanjore. The price of dry ground in Madras rose by about 5 p per cent. The price of mowing rose by 5 p per cent in Palani. There was a fall of 4 p per cent in the price of mowing in Tirunelveli and Agri in South Arcot.

As compared with May 1933, prices were appreciably higher in May 1934 in Coimbatore, Tirunelveli, Coimbatore, the Deccan, and Central districts. Cotton was also dearer in Kistna and Madras.
